

Ken Harris was named executive officer of the Central Coast Water Board in July 2013, after serving as interim executive officer the year prior. Ken has worked for the Water Boards for 26 years serving in a variety of positions. Prior to serving as interim executive officer of the Central Coast Water Board, Ken served as assistant deputy director of the Division of Water Quality. He holds bachelor's degrees in soil and water science, earth science, and a master's degree in hydrology. He is California licensed professional geologist.